New Coaching Staff Leads Gym Dogs In 2013

The Georgia gymnastics program is under new leadership in 2013 under head coach Danna Durante. Suzanne Yoculan's first season in Athens was 1983 and since then, the program has seen only two coaching changes. When Yoculan retired in 2009, she had led the Gym Dogs to 10 NCAA Championships. Durante was hired in May 2012 as the seventh head coach in program history.

While taking over a program with such rich history from the most impressive line of continuity in college gymnastics would seem like a daunting challenge for most, Durante is no stranger to challenging conditions. She comes to Georgia after one year as the head coach at the University of California-Berkeley where she had to completely rebuild the Golden Bears program.

Before her year in Berkeley however, Durante spent nine seasons as Nebraska's beam coach and choreographer. She joined the Cornhuskers as an assistant coach before becoming associate head coach in 2007. Upon arriving in Athens, the Oklahoma native said she was immediately reminded of her successful time with the Cornhuskers.

"This community and this university remind me a lot of Nebraska," Durante said. "There's a lot of similarities, particularly that football is huge in both places which my family and I love. We love a crazy Saturday in a college town where you get to cheer on your team. That part of it feels very familiar and very comfortable, especially from a community perspective."

Shortly after her own hiring Durante brought in assistant coaches Jay Hogue and Phil Ogletree to complete the new look staff.

While Durante needed time to adjust to the program and community, the head coach admitting the amount of information had her head "swimming", assistant Phil Ogletree felt at home right away. For all intents and purposes Ogletree was home.

Born in Atlanta, Ogletree has a bond with the Georgia gymnastics program that not many in his position can claim to have. Between 1980 and 1982 Ogletree was a member of the UGA men's gymnastics team. A combination of this connection and his personal life meant coming back to Georgia was not a difficult decision after spending 12 years at LSU.

"It took me about a second to say yes," Ogletree said. "The timing of everything was so perfect. If it had been a year earlier my daughter would have been a senior in high school and it would have been traumatic. My son's a junior in high school and he was a little easier to move. We put our house on the market and sold it in four days in Louisiana. It just felt like everything was pointing this way and when Danna called and asked it was just amazing, there was really no question in my mind."

A native of Orlando and having cut his coaching teeth in Florida, Hogue was pleased to get the opportunity to come back south having spent two years as an assistant coach at Denver.

Like Durante, Hogue has quickly settled into the community, with sons Pierce and Colin enrolled in Athens schools.

"To get back to the south and the southern people is terrific," Hogue said. "Denver was way too cold for me so back here is a great feeling to be in a close knit community where everyone knows everyone. It's just nice to be home."

Without being able to hold structured there for the student-athletes.

Durante said there has been another factor helping the athletes adjust to their new coaches.

"We've kept the focus on gymnastics, some were able to come in and make that transition very quickly and move forward others are still working towards," she said. "The focus has been on gymnastics and they've done a great job of doing everything really above and beyond in the gym."

While the gymnasts adjust to their new coaches those same coaches are also adjusting to each other having never worked together before. It is clear from how they speak about each other that there is already a strong relationship between the three.

"It's a great staff, it's one mindset and we all work together," Hogue said. "We collaborate on everything from recruiting to what they are going to have for dinner at a meet. We're completely on the same page, which is a very nice feeling to have."

In only her second head-coaching job, Durante firmly believes she couldn't have chosen two better assistants to meet the challenges posed by the Georgia program.

"I knew they were good before I hired them but every day I'm just reminded and thankful and blessed and it's really nice to see those expectations realized on a daily basis," Durante said. "I'm thankful to have a staff that actually works well together and shares ideas. It's just a very nice dynamic that I think all three of us enjoy and we're excited to be working together as a team."

Durante inherits a team with four seniors, including All-Americans Shayla Worley and Noel Couch. The Gym Dogs also return a pair of first team All-Americans in Chelsea Davis and Lindsey Cheek. Sarah Persinger was an All-American last season on floor. Also returning this season will be senior Kati Breazeal.

Cheek is one of three returning juniors along with Kaylan Earls and Cat Hires, while Demetria Hunte and Whitney Kirby return for their sophomore seasons.

Georgia welcomes four freshmen to the fold this season: Mary Beth Box, Brandie Jay, 2012 Olympian Brittany Rogers and Anyisia Unick.

The Gym Dogs will again face what will be one of the nation's toughest schedules. The 2013 slate features seven teams ranked in the preseason top-10, including the season-opener against Oklahoma. Georgia came in at No. 11 in the preseason poll.

Georgia returns five All-Americans in 2013.

practices before September, the new staff was limited in what they could do to build to bonds and trust that'll prove so important for the success of coaches and gymnasts alike. All three coaches said it was a case of taking a slow approach and simply being

Danna Durante

Head Coach

First Season

Danna Durante, who served as head coach at California-Berkeley for the 2012 season and was the 2007 National Assistant Coach of the Year, was named head gymnastics coach at the University of Georgia on May 23, 2012.

Under Durante's direction, California-Berkeley experienced considerable improvement, as the Golden Bears posted an average score of nearly a point higher than the previous year. A total of 23 personal records were set by Cal gymnasts in 2012, and eight gymnasts earned Pac-12 All-Academic honors. She also led the Bears to their highest overall score in five years.

Prior to her stint at California-Berkeley, Durante spent nine seasons at the University of Nebraska as the Cornhuskers' beam coach and choreographer. She joined the Nebraska staff as an assistant coach in 2003, then served as associate head coach from 2007-2011.

Nebraska gymnasts earned a total of 23 All-America honors during Durante's time in Lincoln, and she helped guide the Cornhuskers to a fourth place finish at the 2011 NCAA Championships. The Huskers won four Big 12 titles while Durante was an assistant coach and qualified for the NCAA Championships seven times, including five Super Six appearances.

Durante coached Nebraska standout Richelle Simpson, who finished runner-up on the balance beam at the 2003 NCAA Individual Event Finals. Simpson was also the first Husker to score a perfect 10 on beam. Under Durante's direction, Emily Parsons was a five-time All-American and the 2008 national runner-up on beam. Six Nebraska gymnasts coached by Durante earned 18 All-America honors on beam and floor.

Before joining the Nebraska staff, Durante was an assistant for five years at Washington, where she helped lead the Huskies to the
